MINES NEAR IDAHO CITY

Placer Miners Happy-Work on the Boulder Mil!-Developing Pros-pects-The Copper Market

Freela Correspondence of the Standard. IDAHO CITY, Idaho, Nov. 14 .- The mountains are white with snow and the ground is well soaked from the rains that have fallen during the past 10 days. Pracer miners are consequently happy.

Work is progressing with all possible speed on the Boulder mill, on Elk creek. The owners are endeavoring to be ready to commence crushing by Dec. 1.

Several parties have laid in supplies and will do development during the win-Fork of Salmon river. These mines were discovered this year. They carry a high per cent. of copper and are rich in both gold and silver. The owners are all very confident that a very rich and extensive district will be opened up.

Work is progressing day and night on the 3,500-foot tunnel running to tap the Banner mine, at Banner, at the depth of 685 feet. This tunnel, through which ore will be delivered direct to the mill, will cut the Panamint and two or three other good mines before the Banner is reached. The mill turned out 4,000 ounces of fine silver bullion during the past week.

Many owners of prospects will carry on development work during the winter, and some of them will certainly have good mines to place on the market as soon as spring opens.

Some telluride ores have been found in different mines of this county during the past few months, but no one has ascertained the value. As such ores are generally very rich in gold and silver, it may yet be found out that the mines are much richer than has generally been supposed.

It is not known yet whether the miners who applied for a lease on the Washington mine and mill will succeed. Correspondence between them and Charles Balbach of Omaha is still going on, and some understanding may be arrived at

Assessment work has been done or two very rich, but small gold quar'z mines on Rabbit creek, ten miles east of

Copper Market. From the Engineering and Mining Journal

Nov. 14.

In spite of the good statistical position and other factors of great importance speaking in favor of this metal, pr ces continue to decline, and the market is very flat, there evidently being no support from either side. The new decline is principally due to the European markets, which have lately been very much disturbed through the political situation in Brazil. Confidence is apparently entirely lacking in Europe, and for holders of copper the course of the market for the past 12 months has been rather discouraging, and the circumstances, above described, have brought out a good many sellers early in the week, and prices in London for G. M. B.'s declined to £44 5s., but a reaction came quickly and values advanced to £15 15s , but this could not be upheld, and the closing prices are £45 12 .. 61. for spot and £16 5s. for futures. We hear that lately there has been a somewhat better consumptive demand in Europe, and also for export, but not enough to give general stimulus to the market. Refined sorts are now held at a rather wider margin than hitherto, in comparison with furnace ma-

£60@£61. The market here is still more or less in suspense, as both buyers and sellers are awaiting developments. Lake is freely offered at 11%c., some sales have been made at 11%c, and no doubt more can be obtained thereat, but to effect large sales a still further reduction would have to be made. The opinion is rather general that re shall see 11e before very long. Whether this is true or not we are no able to say, but it appears to us that prices for copper are anyhow remarkably low. Casting copper has been compara-tively very well upheld, and sales were made early in the week at 11@111/c, but at the close these figures can be shaded, and we have to quote, nominally, 10% 11e for good brands. It is reported from Omaha that the copper in this country has lately been considerably increased, and we hear that further increases are contemplated in the course of next year. From the Financial and Mining Record, Nov. 14. The continued weakness displayed by the London market, the absence of demand here and the excessive production are all factors that impart a weak tone to this market, and while there have been but few transactions upon which to base reliable quotations, the tendency is in buyers' favor, and lower prices would have to be accepted to induce sales. The Lake mining companies generally ask 111/2 cents for Ingot, and outside parcels are offered at 11%@11% cen's, but buy-ers' views are not above 11@11% cents, and not a few predict that suil lower prices are in prospect. Casting brands are nominally quoted 10%@11 cents, but it would be difficult to sen at these prices. London quotations have declined to £44 10s spot and £45 5s. futures, but closed yesterday a little firmer at £45 15s, spot and £46 10s futures.

HIS SISTER'S SLAYER. William Mack Thinks His His Discovered

the Murderer of His Sister. BUTIE, Nov. 18 .- An interesting and sensational case of insanity developed itself in the county jail to-night, which might furnish a subject for spiritualistic consideration. Yesterday a young fellow named William Mack, in the employ of Lavell brothers, was sent to the county jail on the charge of patit larceny, and at the time and up to about 9 o'clock to-night he appeared as rational as any one. At about that time he became wild and attacked a fellow prisoner named Pat McCormick, whem he accused of murdering his sister in Dubuque, Iowa, about two years ago. There was a lively tussle for a few moments until other prisoners could separate them, and Mack was removed to the new department. He was frantic and declared that he was only protecting himself against the murderer of his sister. After some coaxing and frantic and declared that he was only protecting himself against the murderer of his sister. After some coaxing and soothing he was quieted, and between sobs and moans he said that two years ago his sister was sandbagged and then shot by footpads in Dubuque and her murderer was never discovered. Tonight he said the spirit of his sister appeared to him in the jail as natural as she was in life, and said: "Willie, don't you know me?" and when he recegnized her, she pointed to a crowd of prisoners and added: "There is the man who killed me." Mack said his eyes followed the spirit of his sister and saw it disappear through the roof of the jail. He then jumped on McCormick, who he said had tived in East Dubuque and that his right name is Lowery.

He had seen him there and had seen him in Butte before, but did not know he was his sister's murderer until she told him so to-night. When Mack had concluded his story he continued praying to the virgin and counted the beads on his rosary, which he had clasped tightly in his hands, and which he declared was all that saved him from being murdered also. His parents live in Dubuque, He is evidently a gone case, and win probably have to be sent to Warm Springs.

McCormick says he came to Butte a year ago tast March direct from Hartford, Conn. He has known Mack for some time here in Butte, but he had never before shown any symptons of insanity.

Ups and Downs in Market Values on the Brock Frehange

New York, Nov. 18 .- The stock market opened active, with no special features. There was a slight advance in most stocks, continuing until the last hour, when a sharp decline brought prices down to nearly the opening figures. The close was quiet and firm at small fractional advances over the opening in all stocks except sugar, which made a gain of 11/2 per cent.
